Course Description
Cultural anthropology is the comparative study of humanity across the globe. It is informed by the past but bound to the present by its basic approach to research: qualitative and quantitative analysis of living populations. Cultural anthropologists use theory to frame collection and analysis of their own and other’s data. This data can come from text (electronic and analog; e.g. books, websites or government policies), art (e.g. music, dance, graffiti), direct behavioral observations (e.g. social actions and organization), experiential participation, health measures and various other modalities.

Course Objectives
The breadth of cultural anthropology is so vast that no one introductory course could cover its entirety. Instead, this course aims to give students an understanding of the concept of culture and how it is contested; introduce foundational anthropological theory and methods; teach key debates; and explore the usefulness of cultural anthropology. Students will also gain valuable experience in writing, debate, and critical thinking.
Course Texts

*All other class readings can be downloaded from the Sakai course page.

Course Format
This course is lecture-based with weekly discussion sections and the occasional film. Students are encouraged to actively participate with relevant questions. Lectures will include information from the textbook and readings, as well as outside sources. All readings and assignments are required and are to be completed before class to allow for meaningfully participation and increased comprehension. On Thursdays, in addition to lecture, the class will split up into section groups for in-depth discussion of readings and films, course concepts and papers. Our hard-working Teaching Assistants Deborah Andrews and Rachel Wayne lead discussion sections.

Attendance
Students are required to attend class. Attendance will not be taken but 10 pop-quizzes and three debates (see below) can only be completed in-class and cannot be made up except in exceptional circumstances. Additionally, all material from lectures, readings, assignments, class discussions, films and other classroom activities may potentially appear on tests and quizzes. The lecture slides do not contain all pertinent material. This means you must take good notes during lecture to succeed in the class. Therefore, students are strongly advised to come to every class.

Course Requirements and Grades
All assignments are announced well in advance, and cannot be made up for any reason unless in the most exceptional circumstances, such as illness or a family emergency. If you know you will not be present during the due date then the assignment must be turned in early. Students who have an emergency must provide a doctor’s note or note from the proper University authorities, and alert the instructor prior to missing an assignment’s due date. Additionally, University policy states that individual students may not be offered extra credit opportunities that are not offered to all students, so please do not ask for individual bonus credit.

10 In-class Quizzes (unannounced, 10 points each)
We will have 10 unannounced pop-quizzes throughout the semester to assess students’ comprehension of class materials and discussions. These quizzes will also serve as proof of attendance. Sometimes they will be at the beginning of class and sometimes at the end. Students will not be allowed to make-up missed quizzes or exams without a doctor’s note and must notify the instructor before the missed class. There will be 3-5 short-answer questions on each quiz. You must turn in the quiz on paper, in your handwriting, and in-person. *Please note that you will start the semester with 20 free points equal to two 100% quizzes. This means, for example, that you can choose to drop the two lowest grades on your quizzes or, if you do well on the first eight quizzes, skip the last two.

Discussion section (50 points)
You are required to attend and participate in the discussion section for which you registered. You must attend discussion sections even if an exam is scheduled for the same day. Only university-approved absences with appropriate documentation will be excused. You will be counted absent from discussion section if you arrive more than 10 minutes late. Fifty percent of the grade is attendance and 50 percent effort.

Reaction Papers
Reaction papers should be double-spaced, with Times New Roman 12-point font and one-inch margins. Students should use the American Anthropological Association citation style: http://www.aaanet.org/publications/style_guide.pdf. Plagiarism of any sort will not be tolerated. Please refer to the University Academic Policy section of the syllabus for further details. Papers must be uploaded to Sakai in .doc or .docx format, with no spaces in the file name, before class on the due date and submitted in hard copy to Alan or a TA in class on the same day. Requirements will also be reviewed in class in advance of paper submission.
Reaction Paper #1 (50 points): This paper is a reaction to reading Miner’s (1956) article ‘Body Ritual Among the Nacirema.” It should be two pages in length, and make use of the cultural anthropological terms, themes and theories introduced in the course, particularly the Miller text (e.g. cultural relativism, ethnocentrism, etic/emic, etc.).

Reaction Paper #2 (100 points): This second paper is a response and reaction to reading Biehl’s ethnography, Vita (2005). As with the previous paper, make use of the terms, themes, theories and lessons learned so far from the course. It should be five pages in length. You must include at least five citations from the other readings in your paper (all resources are cited at the end of the syllabus).

Exams
All exams will be administered on E-Learning. On the scheduled day, exams will be available on E-Learning between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., and you will have 60 minutes to complete the exam. There will be no lecture on the day of the midterm exam (see schedule), but students are required to attend discussion sections February 27. Exams must be taken at the scheduled time (you will have an 8 hour window in which to complete your 60 min exam); there will be no makeup exams. Exceptions will be made only in the case of incapacitating illness or other university-approved absence such as documented family emergency. In such cases, you must contact Alan Schultz with written documentation from an appropriate authority at least 24 hours before the exam.

Midterm (THURSDAY FEBRUARY 27, 100 points)
The midterm will cover material from the first half of the course. It will include information from all lectures, class discussions, readings, videos and online materials.

Final (WEDNESDAY APRIL 30, 100 points)
The final will cover material from the second half of the course only. It will include information from all lectures, class discussions, readings, videos and online materials covered during that time.

Please note that the university uses minus grades and a grade of C- will not qualify for major, minor, Gen Ed, or College Basic Distribution credit. Please see the following for more information:

COURSE GUIDELINES

E-Learning
Sakai will be used for posting announcements, readings and links to websites, as well as for conducting exams, uploading assignments, and updating grades. All students are required to familiarize themselves with Sakai and check Sakai weekly for class-related announcements. Online tutorials are available for students at https://lss.at.ufl.edu/sakai-training/index.shtml and are recommended.
Class Announcements
Important information and announcements will be made in class and distributed to students through their UF email. All students are expected to read and be aware of all emails and class announcements as they are given out. There are no allowances made for students who fail to stay abreast of class announcements for any reason, including absences, full email in-boxes or forgetfulness.

Teaching Assistants
Teaching Assistants (TAs) are responsible for discussion sections. They are available to answer questions and to assist with the required writing assignments during their office hours. They grade all course requirements. You must know your TA’s correct first name and your section number and print them on the top of all papers or writing assignments you submit. If you have a question about grading, first talk with your TA. TAs’ names, office hours, and discussion sections are listed above. TAs may not give permission for make-up exams or late papers.

Use of Electronics
Please silence your phones prior to class. During lectures, discussion sections and midterm/final exams talking/texting, listening to anything through your headphones or use of other disruptive technology is not permitted. A student caught talking on their phone, texting or listening to something on their headphones will be asked to leave class. Laptops and tablets— in addition to pen and paper—are permitted for note taking and active participation in class (this means you should actively take notes or lookup and share information when appropriate, but you should not spend time on social networks as this is a waste of your tuition dollars and detracts from classroom engagement, focus and cooperative learning).

University Academic Honesty Policy
In meeting one of the major objectives of higher education, which is to develop self-reliance, it is expected that students will be responsible for the completion of their own academic work. A fundamental principle is that the whole process of learning and the pursuit of knowledge are damaged by cheating, plagiarism, and other acts of academic dishonesty such as misrepresentation, collusion with outside persons, bribery and fabrication. The use of any and all literature, notes, aids, or assistance from other sources should be clearly identified within any and all course assignments and assessments. If you have any questions about how to properly cite the use of a source in your assignments, please see the how-to video from UF’s writing center at: http://bit.ly/19WFhfb and other resources at: writing.ufl.edu/writing-center/. I take academic honesty very seriously and will immediately fail any student caught engaging in dishonest acts. Furthermore, the University will take severe action against any students acting dishonestly, including possible expulsion. The University Honor Code can be accessed here: catalog.ufl.edu/ugrad/current/advising/info/student-honor-code.aspx

Accommodations for Disabilities: Students requesting classroom accommodation must first register with the Dean of Students Office. The Disability Resource Center will then provide documentation to the student, who is expected to meet with the instructor during office hours or by appointment, at which point the student will provide the documentation and discuss the required accommodations. Students who wish to find out if they are eligible for services can contact the Disability Resource Center at www.dso.ufl.edu/drc. Students must notify the instructor of a disability by the second week of class if semester-long accommodation is needed.

University Counseling Services
Please be aware that the Counseling Center at the University of Florida has a variety of services that may be of use to students during the semester. This includes individual, group and couples counseling, as well as workshops for stress management and time management. For more information, students may visit 301 Peabody Hall or http://www.counseling.ufl.edu.
